EWAN BAKER SCORES INFRONT OF AN ELECTRIFIED BPA CROWD TO SECURE VICTORY OVER CORNISH PIRATES

Block Two of the 2025/26 campaign has emerged as a defining period in Coventry Rugby's season. After opening the block with a narrow defeat, Alex Rae's side responded in emphatic fashion, launching a five-game winning run that is still ongoing. Across these fixtures, Coventry have shown growing maturity, blending attacking ambition with the resilience required to turn strong performances into consistent results.

The block began with frustration at Castle Park, where Coventry were edged out by Doncaster in a dramatic, rain-soaked encounter decided in the final play. Despite the conditions, Coventry produced a determined and enterprising display, repeatedly creating opportunities and enjoying long spells of territory. Tries from Morgan Strong and David Opoku-Fordjour kept Coventry firmly in the contest, while a second-half maul score briefly handed them the lead. Even when reduced to fourteen men, Coventry defended superbly and looked set to see the game out, only for Doncaster to strike at the death. It was a loss shaped by fine margins rather than shortcomings, and one that left Coventry knowing the performance level was where it needed to be.

The cruel ending to the Doncaster game was swiftly addressed the following week at Butts Park Arena. Facing London Scottish, Coventry delivered their most complete performance of the season so far, producing a ruthless response in front of an energised home crowd. From the opening scrum, the set-piece asserted control, providing a solid platform for the backs to play with confidence and tempo. What followed was a statement display of attacking rugby, as Coventry ran in ten tries through a combination of forward power, sharp handling, and excellent support lines. The performance was clinical without being reckless, underlining the squad's depth and their ability to maintain intensity across the full 80 minutes.

Momentum carried into the following weekend with a demanding away trip to Caldy, where Coventry were tested in very different conditions. Battling a strong wind and a spirited home side, Coventry were forced to show patience and composure. Falling behind on two occasions, they remained calm, trusting their systems and leaning on a dominant scrum and disciplined defence to stay in touch. As the game wore on, Coventry began to impose themselves, with second-half scores opening up a crucial cushion on the scoreboard. Even when reduced to fourteen men late on, Coventry's red-zone defence held firm, allowing them to close out a thoroughly deserved 33-22 victory.

By the end of the Caldys match, the Doncaster loss felt distant, and an air of assurance was brewing. The contrasting nature of the two wins highlighted the side's versatility: ruthless and expansive at home, resilient and determined on the road. Confidence was starting to grow, and Coventry were starting to embody a squad that was learning quickly and was capable of winning against a range of playing styles. With the run now established, Coventry had laid the foundations for a powerful push into the following handful of games.

MATT GALLAGHER CUP

Coventry and Nottingham came together for a special afternoon raising awareness for MND in honour of former player Matt Gallagher. In front of a packed, sun-soaked BPA, Coventry produced a thrilling performance to edge a pulsating encounter and claim vital points in the playoff race.

The hosts struck first through Morgan Adderly-Jones after dominant scrum pressure, before Nottingham responded to briefly edge ahead. Coventry then found their rhythm, with tries from Peter Sullivan and David Opoku-Fordjour igniting a devastating spell, capped by Dafydd Rhys-Tiueti to give Cov a 24-7 half-time lead.

Second-half scores from Allan Ferrie and Senitiki Nayalo stretched the advantage, but lapses in discipline invited a fierce Nottingham fightback. Reduced to 13 men at one stage, Coventry showed immense grit to see out the game, winning 41-36. It was a fitting contest for an important occasion, reminding everyone of the power of rugby beyond the scoreboard. We were honoured to have Matt present the trophy to Jordon Poole himself. A great day for the club.

Our next fixture was away on Boxing Day against Cambridge, a side who were very keen to put a troubled first half of the season behind them. The side imposed themselves from the first whistle, combining forward power with set-piece authority. Captain Jordon Poole crossed twice in the opening quarter, before Morgan Strong and David Opoku-Fordjour added further scores to establish a 28-7 half-time lead. Cambridge showed promising periods of attacking play in the second half, finishing the fixture in a spirited fashion, but Coventry's composure and control never wavered. A 33-19 victory saw Coventry pocket their fourth win in a row, picking up another crucial bonus point.

From late heartbreak to back-to-back wins, Block Two had found its rhythm, but big challenges lay ahead. Next up, were Nottingham, a side who had notably held league-leaders Ealing closer than any other team in the Champ, becoming the first team to deny them of a bonus point.

Nottingham's defence was a big talking point before the game, coming into the contest with the most tackles registered of any team. With Coventry scoring the second most points by this point in the season (382), bested only by The Trailfinders, the game was poised to be a classic. A win for Coventry would mean the opportunity to slingshot above Nottingham in the league and so, the stage was set.

Back at Butts Park Arena, Coventry produced another entertaining performance against Cornish Pirates on a wet New Year's Day afternoon. Early tries from Allan Ferrie and Peter Sullivan set the tone, while Josh Thomas' accurate kicking maintained pressure on the visitors. Despite a brief Pirates resurgence, Coventry's structured play, intelligent support lines, and resilience kept them ahead. Sustained pressure allowed Ferrie, who went on to be awarded as Player of The Match, to cross for a second pivotal try. With the clock in the red, Api Bavarda broke down the right wing, bouncing and weaving through a broken field. With Tom Miles in support and Ewan Baker to finish, a try in the last play of the game rounded off our fifth consecutive victory in emphatic fashion.

Across these fixtures, Coventry demonstrated a side growing in confidence and versatility. Whether dominating through the set-piece, executing slick attacking moves, or defending under pressure, the team showed clear progression from the foundations built earlier in the campaign. The block has yielded not only results and improved league position but the building of belief and rhythm. With a stronger foothold in Champ Rugby standings firmly established, Coventry have laid the foundations for a push up the table as the second half of the season gets underway on the 24th of January.

GOV IN THE COMMUNITY

Coventry Rugby, alongside Charter Savings Bank, were proud to welcome GB Down Syndrome Swimming back to Butts Park Arena for their annual awards evening.

The club was delighted to host such an brilliant celebration, with athletes, families, volunteers and supporters coming together to recognise an incredible year. The atmosphere was full of pride and positivity as the DSS-GB community marked both individual milestones and collective success.

That success has been record-breaking. In 2025, Great Britain set Short Course world relay records in the 4x50m freestyle relay (Scarlett Jones, Cerys McCrindle, Amalia Freeland, Caitlin Hatfield), the 4x100m freestyle relay (Scarlett Jones, Caroline Faithfull, Amalia Freeland, Caitlin Hatfield), the 4x200m freestyle relay (Amalia Freeland, Scarlett Jones, Caroline Faithfull, Caitlin Hatfield), and the 4x50m medley relay (Caitlin Hatfield, Holly Sullivan, Amalia Freeland, Scarlett Jones). The programme also continues to hold the Long Course 4x200m freestyle relay world record, set in 2024 by Caroline Faithfull, Cerys McCrindle, Amalia Freeland and Caitlin Hatfield.

Down Syndrome Swimming Great Britain (DSS-GB) is a volunteer-led charity that supports children and adults with T21 or Mosaic Down syndrome to develop as high-performance swimmers and compete at national and international level. As a resources hub across Great Britain, DSS-GB shares best practice and practical guidance with families, clubs and coaches, while also providing specialist insight around training, health, nutrition and classification.

We're very grateful to GB Down Syndrome Swimming for choosing to hold their awards night at the BPA again, and we wish all athletes and everyone involved continued success for the upcoming year!

A few of the amazing athletes involved in the events can be seen enjoying their evening below!

ACADEMY REWIND

Coventry U18s delivered a controlled and increasingly clinical performance to secure a 34-10 win over a committed Hartpury Bulls side under the lights at the BPA.

The game started in earnest with Will Dorrell, Ezra McGlashan and Charlie Stallard all going close before Coventry made their pressure count. Harry Doust rumbled over following a well-executed maul, although Stallard, who had started the evening full of energy, was unable to add the extras.

Momentum built further when, from the kick-off, left wing Archie Samuel (Stourbridge RFC / RGS Worcester) returned a caught ball with real intent, beating an array of red shirts before being brought down inside the Hartpury 22. Coventry capitalised, earning a scrum where Tom Jennings scythed through off a flat pass from Conor Horan to beat the full-back and score under the posts – a moment of real class from the Warwick School inside centre.

Coventry continued to find their feet against a Hartpury side that were both committed and up to the task. Breaks from Will Dorrell, who consistently found space on the far side of the Hartpury defensive line, increased pressure on the visitors, while staunch defensive work from Cornelius Nartey stood out throughout.

Arguably the moment of the evening followed, with captain Dorrell (King's School Worcester) getting the BPA on their feet. A sharp break down the blindside saw him beat three defenders before grubbering around the oncoming full-back for scrum-half Conor Horan to collect and dot down.

The sides then exchanged points, with Hartpury deservedly finding the try line. Coventry responded through the lively Archie Samuel, before powerhouse tighthead Sol Gordon rumbled over from close range. Stallard added a long-range penalty to see out the evening and put a gloss on a strong all-round performance.

An excellent night at the BPA, with clear evidence of growth in both cohesion and execution.

ACADEMY PARTNERSHIP SPOTLIGHT

We are incredibly proud to highlight ATD Coventry as the Founding Partner of the Coventry Rugby Regional Academy and one of the club's Main Sponsors. This partnership reflects ATD Coventry's commitment to supporting rugby talent across the West Midlands while strengthening their connection with one of the region's most historic clubs.

Automotive Trim Developments (ATD) is a Midlands-based engineering and manufacturing group specialising in interior trim and electro-mechanical assemblies. While the automotive industry remains their core focus, ATD works across a number of different sectors including defence, bus & coach, rail and furniture, delivering both luxury bespoke products and high-volume production solutions. Operating from five sites across the Midlands, ATD combines skilled craftsmanship with advanced technology to provide full-service solutions to a wide range of transport and specialist markets.

As Founding Partner of the Coventry Rugby Academy, ATD Coventry plays a key role in enabling the programme to thrive. The Academy now supports over 400 young players, alongside Post-16 Education pathways at Barr's Hill in Coventry and St Regis in Wolverhampton, giving players the chance to develop their rugby skills while accessing quality education.

ATD's support ensures the Academy can continue nurturing talent and providing pathways to professional rugby, with senior academy players already featuring in Coventry Rugby's pre-season and Champ fixtures.

Alongside their Academy involvement, ATD Coventry is prominently displayed on the first team kit and pitch-side at Butts Park Arena, reinforcing their commitment to the club's progression at all levels.

The company has been a visible fixture of the recent series of U18 Academy fixtures at Butts Park Arena with the ATD logo worn proudly by the next generation of rugby players coming through the West Midlands.

We extend our gratitude for all the support provided by ATD so far, and look forward to developing our relationship further as we head into 2026 and beyond.
